

Dr. Kristijan Musek Lešnik is leading expert in the field of applied psychology in education and positive education in Slovenia. His main research within the positive psychology are: optimism, happiness, mindset, and others. He was the main initiator for the first conference on Positive psychology in education in Slovenia which took part in the autumn 2019 with a number of international participants. He is a psychologist with 20 years of experience in the field of education and management. During his 20-year career, he has taught and researched at several Slovenian faculties and at all three major Slovenia's universities. He is the author of more than 50 books, manuals and workbooks in the field of education.

Katarina Kocbek is a psychologist and a project manager (national vocational qualification for project management issued in 2014) with over 10 years of experience with coordination and cooperation on small and large scale projects. In the past 5 years she was the project coordinator for a Norway grants large bilateral project titled SUPER PSIHOLOG. She is currently working as a teaching assistant for educational and work & organizational psychology at the University of Primorska and also cooperating in the Career center of the University as a workshop leader and project consultant. In the past, her main work in the field of psychology was focused on the prevention of violence, inclusion of immigrants, positive psychology and cognitive-behavioural therapy.

Dr. Maja Lebeničnik is an Assistant Professor at the University of Primorska, Faculty of Education. She is the course leader of: Personality psychology and Psychology for Social Educators. She specializes in developmental and learning psychology. Her research areas covers technology supported learning, psychological analysis of online learning, growth mindset, and socio-emotional competencies of teachers. Most of her scientific articles are from areas of covers technology supported learning.
